The New Conservatory Theatre Center has been providing the Bay Area homeschool community with quality creative drama programs since 1999. Under the guidance of one of NCTC's highly qualified instructors, students learn a variety of acting skills from scripted work to improvisation, all of which are proven to encourage life skills such as self-esteem, team building and creativity. At the end of the fall and spring sessions students will present for their families and friends. All classes are age-appropriate, with the older students focusing more on scripted materials.

Established in 1981, NCTC is a three theatre performing arts complex dedicated to providing quality theatre training to empower youth to express themselves, celebrate differences and gain confidence and self-esteem.
