San Francisco, April 9, 2008— NCTC is proud to announce the World Premiere of Men in Uniform. The Show runs May 30 – July 6, 2008: Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8pm and Sundays at 2pm. All performances will take place at The New Conservatory Theatre Center (Walker Theatre), located at 25 Van Ness Ave. near Market St. in San Francisco, 94102. Tickets range from $22 - $34, and are $40 for opening night on Saturday, June 7th. Tickets are available at the NCTC Box Office (415) 861 8972, or online at www.nctcsf.org.

ABOUT THE SHOW

Can real men drop their masculinity issues long enough to actually connect with one another? Featuring the work of local playwrights, Men in Uniform provocatively examines men beneath their masculine attire. With a commitment to producing new works, Founding Artistic Director, Ed Decker chose to end the 2007 – 2008 Pride Season with a potpourri of works featuring eight local writers with dramaturgy by Tom W. Kelly, all of whom are involved in NCTC's gay playwrights program. Men in Uniform features eight short stories, in a collection of work that has a unifying thematic thread, but also showcases the distinct writing styles and unique voices of the playwrights.
